

ROLLING STOPPAGES PLANNED FOR MONDAY 8 NOVEMBER

While six other major transport companies have reached agreements with workers, FedEx has still refused to come to the table with a fair offer, with current tactics heavily influenced by American bosses.

FedEx made $18 million a day in 2020 from your hard work in the middle of a pandemic. But still the company is denying you the job security and fair pay you deserve.

Your delegates have therefore endorsed rolling stop-work actions across the country if FedEx fails to come forward with a fair offer. The staggered strikes will each be four hours across three days, with WA actions to take place Monday 8 November.
