

QGS UPDATE JUNE 2022

QGS OFFER WOULD SEND YOU BACKWARDS

This week your member-led bargaining team met again with QGS management to discuss your new Agreement. QGS is still trying to take your pay and conditions backwards. You will be financially better off with TWU's claims.

QGS OFFER	TWU CLAIMS
"Fixed-term" full-time contracts for a 12-month period, giving you NO job security. QGS told us it could not offer any permanent full-time positions	More permanent, full-time positions, and conversion of casuals to full-time after 6 months to give you job security
A two-year wage freeze, 2% increase in 2022 and 2% increase in 2023, which with high inflation would mean a pay cut	A fair pay increase that keeps up with high living costs and inflation, and backpay
Doesn't want to have to consult with workers on making big decisions with the company - this was how Qantas was able to outsource ground workers	Better consultation clauses to give us power in decision-making
Covertime and allowances below the award	Overtime to apply to all work done by full-time and part-time employees outside ordinary hours on any day or shift

QGS' offer would send you backwards, with many of the conditions below the Award. Your member-led team is fighting for a fair offer that gives you power in the workplace and job security.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

- ▶ The next bargaining meeting is on 15 June. We'll keep all members updated on any developments
- Now is the time to join. Only by standing together can we win a fair agreement. Join today.
