

HIGH COURT HEARING TOMORROW

The hearing will begin in the High Court tomorrow in the ongoing case regarding Qantas' outsourcing.

As the largest and one of the most controversial cases of illegal sackings in Australia, the High Court has decided it is in the public interest to determine once and for all whether Qantas breached the Fair Work Act in outsourcing your jobs.

If the High Court upholds the verdict of the Full Federal Court, that Qantas breached the Fair Work Act, the company will be responsible for the largest case of illegal sackings in Australian history.

The case is now in the hands of the High Court, but our legal team has mounted the strongest possible case and we're putting everything behind this final fight after two Federal Court judgements in our favour.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

We know this has been a long and difficult road for members. Without your actions we would never have come this far.

We'll provide more updates after the hearings, but it will likely be some time before the High Court reaches a verdict.

While we wait for the judgement, use the link below to submit a question to incoming CEO Vanessa Hudson.
